Annual audit report brings Bay good news

BY TRACI BONNEY

The mayor of Bay St. Louis is pleased with the report from a recent audit.

According to Steve Dockens of Moore and Powell CPA, an audit of the city's books for the period of October 1, 1989 to September 30, 1990, shows that Bay St. Louis has a 2 1/2 percent reserve in its general fund.

He told the city council Tuesday night that most cities have a reserve of less than one percent. He said financial advisers recommend a two-month reserve to deal with emergencies.

The audit also showed a seven-month reserve in the city's utility fund, which Dockens said means if major improvements are needed, they probably could be paid for without adding to the city's bonded indebtedness.

Mayor Edward Favre said the audit, required to be made

Board will not question Frilot's power to hire, fire

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Waveland's Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman was refused Wednesday, when he asked the board to join him in writing the state attorney general's office for an opinion concerning Mayor Stella Frilot's power to hire and fire city employees.

Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold, acting mayor during the meeting, told Weidman, "If you would like to write the letter yourself, Stan, go right ahead."

Prior to the meeting's adjournment, Weidman read from a pre-composed letter, citing five points of inquiry.

Upon completion of the reading he asked that the other aldermen join him in signing the letter.

Ward 3 Alderman Curtis P. "Phil" Colson answered, "I don't want my name on that letter."

Landowner, power company wage battle over tree cutting

BY TRACI BONNEY

John Pearson's Turner Street trees continue to stand — for now.

Pearson, a retired U.S. Army colonel living in Augusta, Ga., owns property on Turner Street that is populated mostly by pine trees. He said he has invested quite a bit of money in the property's upkeep, and is considering developing it into a park area for use by friends and family members living on the adjacent properties.

Thirty-three of his trees have been selected by Mississippi Power Company officials as "danger trees" — trees that, if they fall, will come within five feet of the 13.8 kilovolt transmission line the company plans to run from its substation down Turner Street to Hwy. 90.

According to Mississippi Power Company spokesman Buddy Eller, the line being installed

Rash of vehicle burglaries solved with arrest of four

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Four Hancock County young men were recently arrested and are facing multiple charges for theft from emergency vehicles including cars, boats and trucks over nearly a two-year period. The breaking of the ring solved the removal of missing emergency vehicle red lights, blue lights, rechargeable flashlights, radar detectors, keys, shotgun, pistol, radio antennas, police radio, CB radio and other items. In addition, several civilian vehicles were burglarized.

The four arrested were Robert Michael Butch, 20, 103 Barcelona Court; Christopher M. Perronne, 19, 120 Victoria

St.; James Michael Lagasse, 19, 709 Beyer Drive; and Gary Joseph Ponthieux, 19, 5014 Lory St., all of Bay St. Louis, according to Police Investigators Gus Aime Jr. of Bay St. Louis and Jimmy Varnell of Waveland.

National Guard Unit returning stateside

By ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Members of the 1355th Combat Support Company of the Mississippi National Guard Unit are scheduled to leave Saudi Arabia at 10 p.m. on July 22, according to Vicki Overal, wife of Sgt. William Overal.

The latest schedule calls for the unit, which was activated in November 1990, to arrive at Fort Benning, Ga., at 5:30 a.m. and then be bused to Fort Rucker, Ala., arriving there at about 9 or 10 a.m.

The 1355th is composed of Guardsmen from Bay St. Louis and Ocean Springs.

The last new commander of a Hancock County veterans organization was installed Saturday night and the new commanders are scheduled to meet this week to discuss final details for a special celebration planned by them and officials for the local troops.

The 1355th received advanced training at Fort Rucker before being sent to Saudi Arabia to participate in Operation Desert Shield and Operation Desert Storm.

Mrs. Overal said that processing should take two to four days at Fort Rucker before the unit is deactivated.

Visual artist designs Main Street Market logo

BY TRACI BONNEY

Photographer/cartoonist Thomas H. "Doc" Toups decided not long ago to help shine some light on the newly started Main Street Market.

His logo to help advertise the market does just that. Using an italic type style and a high-contrast photograph of a floundering lantern, Toups designed a striking logo that catches the eye and highlights some of the finds to be discovered at the market.

The Main Street Market first opened in the Old Town Coffee Shop parking lot last month as a fund-raiser for the Main Street-Bay St. Louis program.

Main Street project manager Mike Cuevas said, "and a common goal will make Main Street-Bay St. Louis successful. There is a place for everyone to contribute and participate. Doc offered and we accepted. We found a place that benefits the whole where Doc's talents could be used."

Dear Mother,
 Twelve years have gone by since you left us to go to your eternal home. The pain of missing you has never lessened. It's still your name we call in our moments of great joy, and it's still you we long for in our times of deepest distress. You were a wonderful mother, but then you were so much more.

How we love and miss your loving, beautiful face, your strength, your sense of humor, your kind heart, your understanding, and so much more. You were a true teacher. Everyone always came to you with their problems because you always listened without judging. In that, you taught us how to love; the gift of understanding and having compassion for others. We know how much you sacrificed to bring us up. But that was you. The most giving person in the world.

You always were, and always will be our heroine, Mom. We want you to know that if there's any goodness in us at all, it's all because of you.

Yes, our hearts ache from missing you. There's so much we wish we would have told you then, so much we want to tell you now.

To look upon your shining face, to feel your comforting arms around us. Your grandchildren will grow up knowing that their grandmother was not only the best mother that ever was, but the greatest lady we ever knew.

We'll always thank God and be grateful for having been blessed with you as our mother. Sadly missed by

Waveland police chase pipe thieves

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Waveland Police Department Investigator Jim Varnell reported two Bay St. Louis men were arrested Sunday for stealing eight 13-foot lengths of sewer pipes following a chase off of the Kiln-Waveland Cutoff Road.

Varnell said, Waveland Patrolman Brett Ladner and his partner, patrolman Kevin McIntosh were at the Circle-K Food Store on Waveland Avenue and Highway 90 at 1 a.m. when Ladner saw a pickup truck drive by with the pipes. Ladner became suspicious, Varnell added, and the two patrolmen began to follow the truck down the Kiln-Waveland Cutoff Road.

The investigator said, the truck was reported to have turned off a side road and as the Waveland police car followed, pipes began to be thrown off of the truck.

Charley "Charles" Estave, 54, and Joseph R. Pernicaro Jr., 22, of Bay St. Louis were arrested and charged with grand larceny (theft over $100). Both men were released on a $1,000-bond each.

Varnell added that men had admitted to stealing the sewer pipes, valued at $285.

The pipes were supposedly taken from the area of Waveland and Central Avenues where a stock pile is located for work presently contracted.

Arrests

Richard Pate foiled an attempted theft by getting the license number of a suspicious vehicle in the vicinity of Diamondhead's maintenance yard.

An investigation was begun by Diamondhead Security, and they were joined by the sheriff's department and Bay St. Louis and Waveland police, as the theft of the emergency lights and other equipment had been under investigation for some time.

Hancock Criminal Investigator Nathan Hoda said the case was turned over to Bay St. Louis and Waveland police departments because the thefts from the vehicles occurred within their jurisdictions.

Hoda stated, "It seemed they had a fascination in collecting police equipment."

The investigators report among the vehicles involved were those driven by Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn, Hancock Fire Marshal Jay Marsh, Waveland Fire Chief David Garcia, Buccaneer State Park rangers, Buck Ladner, owner of Gulf Coast Security; State Wildlife and Fisheries agents, Bureau of Marine Resources (truck and boat) and a Highway 90 Bay bridge tender.

Some 124 pairs of new work gloves were taken from the Bay

St. Louis superintendent's vehicle while emergency lights were removed.

The four are scheduled to appear before Waveland Municipal Judge Walter James Phillips and Bay St. Louis Municipal Judge George Lipscomb.

Varnell and Aime report Lagasse is charged with seven counts in Bay St. Louis, 10 counts in Waveland; Perrone four counts in Waveland, one count in Bay; Butch, three counts Waveland, one count Bay; Ponthieux, three counts Waveland and one count Bay.

Aime and Varnell, who have worked on the case for two weeks after an initial arrest was made, say the case is still open and there may additional charges.

Varnell said the ring of thefts from vehicles goes back to October, 1989, when the top of a convertible was cut and two speakers removed at a local car dealership.

To give an idea on the value of items removed from the vehicles, Varnell said a new high band radio was worth $1,000 and a rechargeable flashlight costs $100.

Investigators are being assisted by Hancock County, Bay and Waveland prosecutor John Genin.

State Supreme Court reverses death sentence

The Mississippi Supreme Court Wednesday reversed the death sentence of convicted killer Jeffrey Ladner.

The court reversed the decision with a 7-0 vote, saying jurors should have been told Ladner would not receive parole on a life sentence because he is considered a habitual offender. Justices Fred Banks and Chuck McCrae abstained on the vote.

Ladner, 33, a Dedaux community native, was charged while living in River Ridge, La., with capital murder in the November 11, 1986, shooting deaths of Dorothy G. Tassin, 66, and her daughter Jeannette Holden, 44.

Holden's daughter and 2-year-old grandson found the women's bodies in Holden's trailer behind the Brass Anchor on Hwy. 90 west of Waveland. Holden owned and operated the bar.

Ladner was linked to the deaths by his gun and some jewelry belonging to Holden.

Although reversing the death sentence, the state high court upheld Ladner's conviction. However, the court sent the sentencing phase of the trial back to the Hancock County Circuit Court.

ON PATROL

GRAND LARCENY

Bay St. Louis Police Investigator David Parker reported Saturday that two men were arrested Thursday on larceny charges. Parker said Edison Watson, 21, of 803 Meadow Hill Drive, Clinton, was arrested and charged with grand larceny. He is in the Hancock County jail under a $1,000 bond.

Also arrested was Randy LaFontaine, 19, of 6012 W. Grenada St., Bay St. Louis. He was charged with grand larceny and three misdemeanor offenses. He was released on a $2,000 bond.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

Investigator Nathan Hoda with the Hancock County Sheriff's Department reported Thursday that a 16-year-old Bay Side Park male was charged with aggravated assault in last week's shooting of another Bay Side Park man.

Hoda said the juvenile was charged in connection with the shooting of Joseph "J.J." Antoine, 21, of 6110 W. Hinds. Antoine was shot in the head with a .45-caliber handgun around 2:30 July 8. He was in fair condition Friday at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

The juvenile has been turned over to Youth Court authorities, Hoda said.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It amazes me how popular the Walking Track in front of Hancock Medical Center continues to be.

About a dozen of us got a special treat while walking early Monday morning when a pileated woodpecker stopped by for breakfast at one of the pine trees.

I was able to make an entire round and the big woodpecker was still pounding away, as it apparently found some tasty morsels on one of the limbs.

It was the first time I had gotten a good view of one of the woodpeckers in a number of years.

A few Sundays ago while at my mother's, I heard one across the street but was unable to see him.

I am hoping the big birds are on the comeback, because they seem to be so graceful and are an added attraction to our outdoors.

On the subject of the Walking Track, I am still enjoying my walking. It seems there are a few more folks getting into shape these days.

I am curious as to when was the last time you exercised!

Have you noticed the beautiful flower beds in front of the Hancock County Tax Collector's office.

The beds are overflowing with blooms and enhance the beautification efforts in the downtown area of Bay St. Louis.

I guess the weather has had a lot to do with their excessive blooming.

I have been watching the large numbers of crepe myrtles in bloom in the area.

They must be pretty hardy plants in order to withstand the hot sun we have been having in recent weeks.

Crepe myrtles grow at a slow rate, but they surely can turn into beautiful trees when in bloom.

Operation Desert Shrimp a resounding success

Earlier this year, thousands of Mississippi troops returned home to a hero's welcome after participating in Operation Desert Storm. In addition to the homecoming parades, appreciation rallies have been held all over the state and nation for the returning troops.

Unfortunately, I was unable to attend one of the largest "appreciation rallies" held this Fourth of July at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum. In addition, I also missed the annual Bay St. Louis Fishing Rodeo. Taking my three children, Gary, Sarah and Emily fishing has become a tradition in the Taylor household for nearly ten years during the July 4th weekend.

However, this Independence Day, I was given the opportunity to share a Mississippi Gulf Coast tradition with an elite group of Mississippians still serving their country in Saudi Arabia: the 1355th Reserve Unit based out of Ocean Springs and Bay St. Louis.

The 1355th, the last Mississippi Reserve Unit left in the drawdown of troops, has been in Saudi Arabia since January. Because the 1355th was unable to celebrate one of America's most cherished holidays with friends and family, I wanted to bring a "taste of home" to them.

Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney approved the idea, and Les Aspin, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, approved the flight that took me to the heart of the unit's camp in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia.

Upon approval, my staff and I managed to round up nearly

The recurring nightmare of highway maintenance men.

Of course this is not necessarily true - but it could happen. Imagine spending 77,590 man-hours cleaning up our Mississippi roads. That's what the Highway Department spent last year at a staggering cost of over $870 thousand.

That's a lot of litter! That's a lot of time and money that could be spent in many more productive ways. Money right out of the taxpayers' pockets. Let's make an effort to clean up our roads. DON'T litter, please!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident upset in way power was turned off

Dear Editor:

I would like to use this letter as a source of awareness for the needy people of this community, because they may suffer the same plight as I did.

Through the years you learn to depend on Mississippi Power Company for the courtesy hangers they put on your door as a last resort to collect before they disconnect your electric.

We understand that this has been discontinued, but we do need a final notice. Although there is a notice on the bill (which hardly anyone reads) we still need the courtesy of the door hanger.

Had they put a hanger on my door, I would have borrowed the $31 to pay my bill, but instead they disconnected the electric on my shed, which houses my deep freezer on Friday, July 12. It was Tuesday, July 16, before I knew my electric was off. I lost shrimp I had recently purchased, chicken, and other items.

There was a lot of untruth said that I had warning by way of six or seven telephone calls. I am a law-abiding citizen and widow on a limited income and also an advocate for the poor. I always try to pay my bills or make arrangements to pay if I run short.

I am not the only one, as I have been told others have also had their electric disconnected without a final notice. So please continue with the door hangers. In closing, I would not like to see anyone treated the way I was.

Mississippi Power is a monopoly, because where can you get other service in the city?

Sincerely,
Geraldine Lang

Senators' raises unfair to senior citizens

Dear Editor:

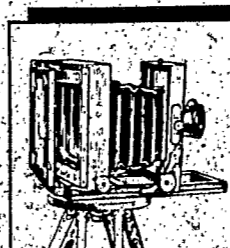

Senior citizens received a Social Security 4 percent raise after many years of productive work, and they almost didn't get that. Of course, Medicare payments went up, which took most of the raise.

Now we have to pay for senators to get a 25 percent raise for part-time work and they were instrumental in the S&L scandal, the deficit and careless spending. What did they do to earn such a monumental increase? Make tough decisions?

It isn't tough to vote yourself a raise, it's just tough to justify it!

We are proud of Rep. Gene Taylor who voted against a raise in the House, and then when one passed he is giving it back to the people in the scholarship program. That's a real vote!

Yours truly,

Polls will open at 7 a.m. Saturday in the 20 precincts across the county in what may well be as hotly contested race as any Democratic primary for local offices. The issue is whether or not Hancock County will come out from under Mississippi's prohibition laws. The election under the new state law which came out of the recent legislature was called earlier this month by the board of supervisors. Petitions bearing well over the required 1,500 qualified electors were ready when the new law became effective July 1.

Dr. Marion J. Wolfe (Sr.), resident physician and surgeon, says rumors about cases existing here of infantile paralysis along the Mississippi Gulf Coast are false. The report is not true, says Dr. Wolfe in a report to The Echo, and the public should be careful about spreading such damaging reports. There are no grounds whatever to give such rise for such reports. This should be satisfying to the apprehensive and even suspicious mind and put an end to all such distortion of truth.

Bay St. Louis movie fans are particularly fortunate these days of high class production in the three local places of amusements. There was never thrown on the local screen such an array of stars and first-class features, the best to be had and all that money can buy. Such enterprise should be encouraged and rewarded with a liberal patronage. Don't forget to take the children.

That member of the board of supervisors who, last Monday week when the board was discussing the job printing bids and favoring The Echo, produced a copy of this paper dated May 9th and read the editorial "False Economy," must be guilty of the charges set forth in the article since he made of it a personal matter, and willing to sacrifice the prosperity of home industry for the satisfaction of prejudice. The article had reference to the failure of the board when it refused to have Hancock County represented at the new Chicago Exposition, and stated that the failure was attributed to the incapacity of the board, and that certain members of the board regarded public matters too much as their own. The proceeding of Monday week was very small, and will serve as a guide in the future.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Another river for unit system to cross

In November 1988, voters in 47 Mississippi counties said "yes" to a countywide system of administering roads.

Lawrence County voters, however, by a 2,944 to 3,342 count, elected to retain five separate road districts—one for each county supervisor. That vote and the Pearl River now are having an impact on proposals to redraw supervisor district lines, according to a recent editorial in the "Lawrence County Press."

The Pearl almost cuts the county in half as it crosses the northern county border, flows to the east of Monticello and under the U.S. Highway 84 bridge in the middle of the county before exiting in the southeast corner.

Traditionally the Pearl River, which could be crossed only near Monticello, acted as a barrier to efficient road maintenance, and supervisor district boundaries did not overlap the river except near Monticello and the bridge.

Now, as the county tries to redistrict itself, the "traditional" lines are a problem.

The newspaper reports that under a redistricting proposal and without a countywide road maintenance system, crews of three or five districts will be forced to travel through other counties to maintain roads in their respective districts.

The "Lawrence County Press" editorial recommends doing away with the traditional beat system: "The unit system would put all road resources in one group, which would be overseen by a road foreman who has road building expertise. The equipment in the county could then be used where it is needed most, and crossing the river in a certain section of the county would not be a problem."

annually, covered the first full year of the current administration. "I think the report given for the City of Bay St. Louis was a fantastic report," he commented. "When you compare it to the figures from other cities across the Coast and around the nation, and see the difficulties they're having, I think this report really reflects the efforts of all the city's administration to save the taxpayers' money and keep from raising taxes." The only material weakness cited in the city audit was how the city inventories its fixed assets. Municipal clerk Kay Johnson said the city has nearly completed its inventory and is expanding its data base to not when the assets were purchased, their costs, whether they are insured and when the insurance expires. She said the expanded inventory will be of assistance to the city, particularly if a hurricane or other disaster damages or destroys city equipment.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy
McGuire Caire

On my way to the store this afternoon, I passed by a group of youngsters happily engaged in a "watermelon fight" after eating their fill of that luscious fruit, each attempting to smear the others' faces; and I'm sure that each of the lot got a good "face-washing" before they were through!

Doesn't that bring back memories of childhood summers on the Gulf Coast? My siblings and I, along with friends, often had our watermelon parties on the pier in front of our beachfront home in Biloxi and we finished off with a swim after a spirited "watermelon fight," of course!

I'm not planning a watermelon or any other sort of "fight," but I did buy a watermelon—couldn't resist the melon or the good prices at our supermarkets this week. Of course, if you can't use a whole melon, you may choose from the sections and slices and even chunks of melon at the produce counters.

There are so many excellent choices in the fruit departments that it's difficult to limit one's selection. I'm in a "berry" mood these days also, with the ripe and juicy blueberries, raspberries and strawberries on display, especially those Mississippi-crop blueberries!

Often start the day with berries atop cereal, or in pancakes or waffles or muffins. One of my favorite summertime desserts is crepes, those thin, delicate pancakes, filled with berry combinations, then rolled—delicious!

For a tasty, and old-fashioned summertime dessert, try:

SUMMER PUDDING

1 pt. blueberries
1 pt. raspberries
1 pt. strawberries, halved
1 lemon
2/3 cup sugar
Dash (1/8 tsp.) nutmeg
9 slices white bread (firm)
1/3 cup water

Pare the zest (the yellow part) from the lemon, taking care not to get any of the bitter white pith behind it. Combine in a skillet the strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, sugar and nutmeg, lemon zest and 1/3 cup water. Cook over medium heat for 8 to 10 minutes until the fruit is soft, but still not mushy, in other words, still intact.

Remove from the heat, let cool. Remove the zest, and drain the fruit, reserving juice. Line a 5-cup bowl with plastic wrap. Trim the crusts from the bread, and dip one side of each bread slice in the juice. Line the bottom and sides of the bowl with the moistened side toward the bowl, cutting bread as necessary so as to fit.

Pour in the fruit, top with the remaining bread, trimming to fit, and brush the remaining juice over the bread. Cover with plastic wrap and put a plate on top (a plate which fits into bowl). Add a weight of some sort, and refrigerate overnight. Turn pudding out onto plate and cut into wedges. Top with whipped cream or whipped topping if desired. For an even sweeter version, use leftover pound cake or angel food cake instead of the bread. (6 servings)

I'm going to serve some of the watermelon as:

MINT JULEP WATERMELON

Cut the melon into chunks, sprinkle with bourbon and fresh chopped mint. Or, if it's for the youngsters:

CITRUS WATERMELON
Sprinkle orange juice and the chopped mint over (or lemon juice).

Here's a hint from "Woman's Day" magazine: top sliced ripe nectarines with vanilla yogurt and crumbled pecan shortbread cookies (I think that I shall try that with some of those juicy peaches I've just brought home.)

Okra and snap beans and corn, along with cucumbers and zucchini, are standouts in the vegetable bins; and tomatoes are down in price, so I can start making my fresh tomato sauces again for my pasta and rice dishes, and for so many other dishes!

Beef's always an extra-good buy in summertime when prices are down. You've plenty of choices this week, all sorts and sizes! From boneless beef rump roasts to center cut chuck roasts to bottom round boneless steaks and round bone shoulder steaks and 7-bone steaks to the pro pricier cuts, you're sure to find some to please you.

And, don't turn up your nose at the budget cuts. They're quite flavorful, and when braised and cooked right (they need moist cooking) and seasoned right, they're a culinary delight.

Ham shanks and whole smoked picnics, along with Boston Butt roasts, are good buys; as are whole fryers and the perennial fryer leg quarters. And those standbys of summertime and the kids-on-summer-vacation-time, the hot dog and burger meat and sausages and bologna are also good buys.

Let's eat!

Simple tips save calories, fat grams

Consumers want quick and easy, nutritious foods that are light in calories, fat and sodium.

Meat, poultry and fish are traditional American favorites—and important sources of essential minerals such as iron and zinc, as well as protein.

Dry beans and peas, nuts and eggs provide many of the same nutrients and can be used in ingredients. Place meat on a rack when roasting, broiling or braising, so that fat can drain away from meat.

Cook with little or no added fat using nonstick pans. Baste with unsalted broth, unsalted tomato juice or fruit juice, rather than with fatty drippings.

If using ham or other cured sparingly. These are often high in sugars, sodium or both. Use less of high-sodium condiments, such as soy sauce, dill pickles and monosodium glutamate (MSG).

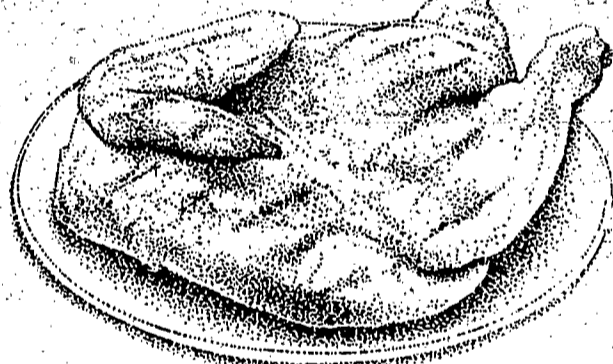

Reduce or omit salt when using salted, processed foods such as canned vegetables or soups in recipes or try "no-salt-added" canned vegetables. In preparing sauces and toppings, chill drippings and broth and remove fat before making gravies, soups and sauces. To avoid lumps, mix thickener (flour or cornstarch) with cold liquid ingredients (unsalted broth, water, fruit juice) before heating. Be moderate in use of high fat crumb toppings for casseroles.

Try a few alternatives occasionally. Extend meat, poultry or fish in main dishes and casseroles by combining them with pasta, rice, other grains or vegetables.

Use only one egg yolk per serving in egg dishes. Make larger servings by adding extra egg whites, as in scrambled eggs. Occasionally try dishes made with cooked dry beans or peas in place of meat, poultry or fish.

You can lighten up the main courses you serve and still enjoy lots of variety and all foods if you do a little planning.

Remember too, that there are no "all good" or "all bad" foods. It takes "moderate amounts of all" foods for a balanced diet.

place of meat occasionally. There are ways to get these important nutrients with less calories, fat and sodium.

Taking the skin off a half breast of roasted chicken reduces fat from 8 grams to 3 grams and calories from about 195 to 140.

Cutting the fat off a 3-ounce piece of broiled sirloin steak lowers fat from 15 grams to 6 grams and calories from 240 to 150.

When you prepare meat, poultry, fish and alternates, keep these ideas in mind. Before cooking, trim visible fat; remove skin from poultry; if you salt uncooked meat, add no more than 1/4 teaspoon per pound; prepare meat, poultry or fish without breading or batter. Coatings absorb fat.

Mildew makes coming home unpleasant for vacationers

BY TRACI BONNEY

It's vacation time. You close the house, shut off the air conditioner and leave for a week or two.

When you return, you turn the AC back on, plop down on the couch, and — What's this black stuff on the couch?

That black stuff, or maybe white stuff, is mildew, produced by the mold in the air.

Molds, simple plants in the fungus family, are always present in the air. However, those that cause mildew need moisture and certain temperatures to grow.

These molds grow anywhere they can get nourishment. Wood, paper, leather and natural fiber fabrics are prime targets.

County home economist Darlene Underwood said she has had several calls recently asking how to remove mildew from walls, carpet and furniture.

She explained that when you close up the house and turn off the air conditioner, the darkness, humidity and lack of air circulation turn the house into a perfect breeding ground for mildew-causing molds. These molds can leave musty odors, discolor and rot fabrics, discolor leather and paper.

Underwood recommended a mild bleach/water solution to remove mildew from furniture and walls. She said a mixture of a half-cup of bleach and a gallon of water should be used in the following manner:

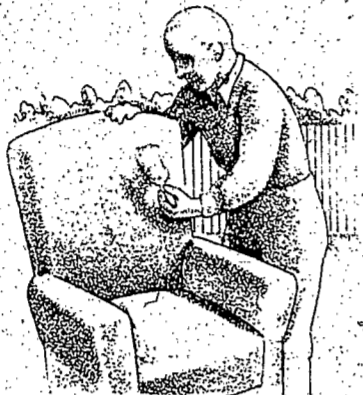

Dampen a sponge with the bleach solution, wring the sponge out well, then wipe the surface to be cleaned. Follow this by wiping the surface with a damp sponge (water only) to remove the bleach, then dry the surface with a clean cloth.

A tile cleaner, sprayed in the finest mist possible, can substitute for the bleach solution, she added.

For carpets, the cleaning method depends on the type of carpet. Area rugs and carpets can be sponged with a thick dry soap or detergent suds and wiped clean with a damp cloth, or an electric shampoo machine can be used on the mildewed area. Then let the item dry in the sun.

Wall-to-wall carpet may be taken up by a rug cleaner, taken to the plant, cleaned and dried. If this is the case, a stretcher may be needed to return the carpet to the needed size.

If the carpet can't be removed, you may use a vacuum cleaner capable of removing water from carpet. You should vacuum the carpet until no more water can be removed.

If the water has gotten under the carpet into the padding, it may not be possible to pull the water through the carpet. If this is the case, Underwood said, you may need to lift a section of the carpet and remove the wet padding so it can air dry.

To prevent mildew from forming, Underwood recommended that those leaving their houses for an extended period find some way to keep the air circulating.

"If you leave your air conditioner running, you don't have to have it set low, because you're reducing the humidity in the air more than cooling the house," she said. Setting the thermostat at around 80 degrees should be sufficient, she added.

She suggested that vacationers consider asking a neighbor to run the air conditioner or a fan for a certain amount of time each day while the residents are away.

Underwood said those who have other questions or problems concerning mildew and mold can call her office at 467-5456.

July 31 is deadline on directory changes

South Central Bell reminds Mississippi Gulf Coast residents that the closing date for making changes, corrections, or additions in the 1991 Mississippi Gulf Coast directory is July 31.

Residential customers may contact the Residence Service Center at 1-557-6500, toll free. Business customers may call in changes to 1-557-6000, toll free.

The 1991 Mississippi Gulf Coast directory will be a new directory in that it will be a consolidation of the white page listings of the Mississippi Gulf Coast directory and the Pascagoula directory.

With this interfiling all the white page listings will appear alphabetically in one section instead of in individual sections for each exchange or town. In the new directory, the community name in most cases will follow each listing.

"Our customers will now be able to look in the directory to find the telephone number they want without having to know the town where the called party is located," said Tim Ryan, manager. "This change supplements the local calling enhancements we introduced with our Area Calling Plan for the Gulf Coast area."

Question

Bard said, "I don't want my name on it, because I know for a fact that the mayor has the right to hire and fire. Under the system we are in, you serve at the will or you don't serve at the will of the mayor."

Hubbard also said several times in the past the city has rejected the incorporation of civil service, which would guarantee each employee a hearing. Colson added that as a businessman, he understands the reasoning behind the power designation. "We cannot be mustered up here on a daily basis to make those determinations."

"We do our best to legislate. We are a legislative body, but we are not here for every situation that occurs."

Weidman also questioned city attorney Lucien Gex as to where it was written in the city charter that the mayor must work full-time.

Gex said he was not sure what full or part-time meant, adding that the mayor was on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, with no specific hours implied.

Weidman commented, "So, based upon what is written in the charter, there is no full-time mayor. That the mayor is a member of the board of Waveland, and the board consists of the mayor and the board of alderman, and the aldermen are part-time people, I really see no reason as to why these terminations cannot be discussed with the board in executive session."

Hubbard interjected, "They could be. If you would request an executive session."

Weidman turned and answered, "Well it's a little late to question once you've let the horse out of the barn."

Prior to the reading of the letter, Weidman asked Gex if he could have a written opinion from him on the mayor's hiring and firing powers.

Gex spoke for several minutes explaining his interpretation to be that the mayor does have such power, without input from the board, and only in positions of administration does the charter direct a reason be given and an opportunity be granted the employee to answer.

Gex quoted legal cases and state statutes in support of his opinion.

Weidman again asked that Gex submit a written opinion.

He answered that he would, under instructions from the board, since the City of Waveland would have to pay for the opinion.

Weidman cited five requests from the letter.

"One. Cause and under what circumstances may an employee be discharged?"

"Two. Do we have to follow a procedure to accomplish that termination? If so, would you please outline this procedure?"

"Three. Do we have the right to terminate an employee for any other reason than what is called for in the charter?"

"Four. Who has the right to hire and fire under this section (25)?"

"Five. Does the mayor have the right to employ employees without the consent of the board?"

Frilot was reported to have been absent due to being out of town.

is more sensitive to falling limbs than a lower voltage line. Eller said thousands of customers could be without power if a limb fell on the new high-voltage line.

Pearson claimed he was originally led to believe the company merely wanted to trim some of his trees. The company is now planning to remove the danger trees.

Eller said the removal of those trees that could threaten the line during high winds is according to company policy. He added that the company gives landowners a standard compensation for the trees that are removed.

Pearson said the money is not the object in this situation. "The power company has been less than forthright in this matter. They have also tried to threaten me with eminent domain proceedings if I didn't agree to their plans."

Both Eller and Pearson said negotiations are continuing on the matter.

Pearson is not the first tree owner in Hancock County that Mississippi Power Company has had to deal with recently. Public outcry over poor tree trimming in the Bay St. Louis downtown area caused the company to defend its policies and methods to Historical Society members and other residents, and led to the gradual removal of several trimming crews from the city.

Opening old wounds

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

"This is Deputy Sheriff Nathan Hoda. Did you have a car stolen which had the license plate TAKS-730 MS?"

"Yes," I hesitated, after considerable initial surprise that my annual retreat was interrupted by, of all things, an eight-month-old theft report.

"When was your car stolen?" he continued.

I swallowed hard and answered: "On October 5 or 1990, from the carport of the church rectory."

"We just want to report, sir, that we have found the remains of your stolen car. It was cut up into small slabs."

"Thank you," I returned very weakly.

"You will be hearing from us when we have a complete report on what happened."

"The remains," I reflected later on. "The remains. It is just as if the body of a missing person had been found."

That is also the way it felt. My poor little Chevrolet Celebrity had 206,000 miles on it when it got hot-wired by evil thieves. Yes, Deputy Hoda opened old wounds when he reached me by telephone. After all these months, there was pain.

Our retreat took on a different complexion after that call. Storytelling was the centerpiece of the retreat, and now there was another very personal story to be told in my own life, a story which would impact heavily on other lives.

Even when it comes to certain material things, reminders can trigger painful flashbacks, reopening old wounds. It was not so much the face value of the Celebrity as its years of faithful performance and convenience which evoked the pain.

Much more than the car itself, it was the violation of my human rights and my personal well-being which was replayed before my mind's eye. The slow burn of ensuring anger once more coursed through my thoughts and feelings.

Then all was quiet again, the violent waves subsiding almost as suddenly as they had boiled up. However, they left behind an empathy for other people in analogous situations.

Now it was more clear to me than ever before how much more divorcees must hurt when their supposedly lifelong ties are broken; how that hurt is often experienced anew when old wounds are reopened through contacts because of children or because of financial settlements.

In an increasing number of cases nowadays, those old wounds are opened in great pain one more time when the annulment process gets underway.

The settled mud is kicked up once more in hopes of moving on to a new life. If done properly, this reopening can be integral to the healing process.

Old wounds, scars, trauma find their roots in many things: rejection, whether at birth or later; physical or sexual abuse as a child, adolescent or adult; neglect; ridicule, verbal and psychological abuse; racial or other hatred.

We open one another's old wounds unintentionally when we have to dredge up unpleasant circumstances in order to settle the business of old episodes and incidents.

Unfortunately, we open those old wounds intentionally, sometimes maliciously, if we taunt each other with the memories or if we ignore or abuse one another all over again.

Just as Jesus always was, we must be, not about reopening old wounds or inflicting new ones, but about healing.

Bay 9-10's win district title

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The Bay St. Louis 9-10-year olds All-Star team captured the District title Friday, July 12 at the Little League field on Athletic Drive.

Fighting their way through the loser's bracket, the team had to beat Picayune twice after losing to them on the opening day of the tournament 2-0.

In Friday night's game, Bay St. Louis defeated Picayune 9-7. Winning pitcher was Dusty Carver. The whole team hit the ball well, according to manager Michael Lee.

Bay St. Louis had held Picayune 9-3 until the sixth inning, when Picayune knocked in three runs. On the previous day, Bay St. Louis beat the same team 4-3 in a closely fought game.

Turning in "fine pitching" throughout the tournament were Jamie Cuevas, Dusty Carver and Brantley Ladner, according to Lee.

On Tuesday night, in their second game, Bay St. Louis overpowered Central Harrison 27-7.

Facing Waveland on Wednesday night, the team had a tough battle against their cross-town rivals, beating them 5-2.

Next week Bay St. Louis will host the state playoffs. In competition will be Bay St. Louis, Stone County, Meridian and d'Iberville. The first game begins Monday evening, with two games per night through Friday.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Bay girls lose tourney

Central Harrison took home the trophy in the Senior League Girls' Softball Tournament held this week in Bay St. Louis. They defeated the Bay St. Louis All Stars 18-16 Thursday and 17-7 Friday.

Bay St. Louis took the lead in the first game Thursday, with Traci Collins striking out Central Harrison's first two batters and Bay St. Louis scoring eight runs the first two innings.

Central Harrison could not get ahead until a rally in the top of the sixth inning, when nine runners came home.

Bay St. Louis fought hard, and three runs came in the bottom of the seventh to bring the score to 16-18. Tessa Metzler came to the plate with two outs and the bases loaded. She took the first two balls and then popped it to right field. Central Harrison's Wanda Farmer dove for the ball and caught it six inches from the ground for the third out and the ball game.

In the second playoff Friday night, Central Harrison dominated the whole game by scoring five runs in the first inning, two in the second, two in the third, one in the fourth and seven the sixth.

Bay St. Louis could not get a rally going, and only scored a total of seven runs the entire game.

Central Harrison will travel this week to New Iberia, La., for the sectional tournament against state winners from Louisiana and Alabama.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

Riviere-Whitfield

Desiree Laeon Whitfield and James Joseph Leo Riviere Jr. were united in marriage June 15 at the Main Street United Methodist church in Bay St.

Louis. The Rev. Van Carpenter officiated the ceremony. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim O'Cain of Bay St. Louis and the late Felton L.

(Buddy) Whitfield. The groom is the son of Dorothy Riviere of Waveland and James Joseph Leo Riviere of Metairie, La.

The bride chose for her wedding a candlelight gown of bridal satin. The high-neck was trimmed with beaded Alencon lace, with illusion to the sweetheart bodice, which was accented with an overlay of heavily beaded Alencon lace. Leg-o-mutton sleeves were also accented with beaded Alencon lace. The back was fashioned with a low V, covered with illusion and satin buttons. The waistline at back was decorated with a bustle and trimmed in satin rosettes in center and extended to a chapel train. Her headpiece was a wreath of glittering crystals, sequin leaves, pearl loops and pearl sprays. A large pouf of illusion sprinkled with seed pearls held a two-tiered elbow-length veil.

The bride carried a silk cascade of candlelight roses, stephanotis and peach lilies, accented sprays of pearls and candlelight satin ribbon streamers.

Alicia Macuick of Diamondhead, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Dr. Tereau Pearson of Chicago, Ill., sister of the bride, and Darlene Roderick of Waveland, sister of the groom.

Jenja Ard of Waveland was flower girl, and Justin Macuick of Diamondhead, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

The bridesmaids wore peach dresses of silk shantung, each designed with a round neck, puffed sleeves, fitted bodice and a V-back and basque waist accented with a peplum and a straight skirt. They carried peach lilies with tulle and candlelight ribbons.

Billy Roderick of Waveland served as best man.

Groomsmen were James Wesner of Waveland and Karl Ermet of Lacombe, La.

Music was provided by soloist Mary Howard and organist Jean Smith.

The mother of the bride chose a two-piece suit of teal bengaline faille with an embroidered lace collar, fitted bodice with a pleated peplum and straight skirt.

The mother of the groom wore a royal blue jersey knit dress with long sleeves and decorated with crystals on the bodice featuring a wrap below the waistline and a straight skirt.

A reception followed the wedding at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall in Bay St. Louis.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will live in Waveland.

'Dracula, the Musical?' auditions set July 28-29

Auditions for Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's upcoming production of "Dracula, the Musical?" will be Sunday, July 28 and Monday, July 29 at 7 p.m. at the Boardman Avenue Playhouse in Bay St. Louis.

Five adult males and four adult females of various ages (mid-twenties to sixty-plus) and "lots of extras" are needed for the lively mad-cap musical comedy scheduled for presentation Oct. 18, 19, 25 and 26.

The costumed play is set in the mid-1800's in a "madhouse" just a short "gallop" from London.

Although some singing and dancing is required of all cast members, director Noel Gillum hopes that everyone interested will come out and audition.

"Most of the songs are really quite simple. You don't need a trained voice, just a good voice; the ability to carry a tune, and a sense of humor. Give yourself a chance... if you've ever sung in the shower and dreamed of being a "star" this might be your big break," said Gillum. Glenda Coss-Toomey, well known for her many performances and a "veteran" director, will assist her dad, Noel, as choreographer/assistant director.

For more information, interested persons may contact Carol Young at 467-2121, Kathleen Sick at 467-7077 or Marie Bernard at 467-7648.

Walter Anderson Museum offers innovative programs

In an effort to provide innovative programming for children and adults the Walter Anderson Museum of Art is offering several new activities.

A new program has been designed for individuals who are interested in exploring contemporary art issues. The Summer Art Circle will be held on respective Monday evenings beginning at 7 on July 22, 29 and Aug. 5 and 12.

This program will be conducted in a round table discussion format with participants agreeing to undertake weekly readings and then come prepared to discuss with the group the respective article.

The text for this first and experimental session is entitled "Postmodern Perspectives: Issues in Contemporary Art," a compilation of articles by art critics, historians and artists.

The text, published in 1990 by Prentice Hall Publishers was edited by Howard Risatti who states in his introduction that,

"The study of criticism has become of increasing interest to the field of art, as indeed it has to literature and other fields. Because of this, rather than simply a passive, responsive activity, criticism now generally has come to be seen as a means of cultural intervention, and probing into the very nature and structure of art, society, knowledge and the self."

The program was organized due to a number of requests by regional artists and art patrons for some type of in-depth interpretive activity which could stimulate interest and discussion about contemporary art issues.

This program is very ambitious and experimental, and participants are assured of a mind broadening and enriching experience.

The program will be led by museum director Mark Tullos and will be held in the museum library/lecture room. The program is open to museum members, but reservations are limited.

The only expense incurred by participants will be the purchase of the Postmodern Perspectives book which is offered through the museum store.

This summer the museum is offering a series of art activities tailored for children ages 6-12. These activities have a nominal participation fee and are open to every child on the Coast. Registration fees are $3 per child or $1 for museum member children.

Mural, Mural on the Wall
Thursday, July 18, 9-11 a.m.

This activity will afford each child the experience of painting big in public space. Each child will be allocated space in which to create an artistic statement concerning nature. Participants will also review the approach of other great muralists, including our very own Walter Anderson.

Bannermaking
Thursday, July 25, 9-11 a.m.

This will be a wonderful experience for children in painting on cloth and seeing their art come to life in the wind with motion and color. The staff will cover some of the most important elements in design and composition and leave the theme of each creation up to the individual child.

The Walter Anderson Museum of Art is a non-profit institution dedicated to the preservation, presentation and interpretation of the visual arts.

The museum is located at 510 Washington Avenue in Ocean Springs. For more information about these and other programs offered through the museum, call (601) 872-3164.

Sheriff Price stars in children's show

Gulfport Little Theatre will open their children's musical, "The Trial of the Big, Bad Wolf" starring Harrison County Sheriff Joe Price as "Sheriff Right" July 27 at 2 p.m. with a show that night at 8 and July 28 at 2 p.m.

This is an original show from New Orleans that has singing and dancing pigs, a rapping Little "Fred" Riding Hood, a sneaky wolf with tricks up his sleeves and more. Children of all ages, as well as adults will love this show and its humor.

For reservations, tickets or information call the box office at 864-7983. Tickets are $1 for children 17 and under and $6 for adults, with special price of $5 for senior citizens Sunday afternoon.
